THE FUTURE OF Corporate Governance

This session will explore new knowledge based pathways for at-scale Economic Development emerging from observations of out-performing companies.

Treasury observes that "95% of productivity gains have come from just 5% of companies". And, this 5% have been the exceptions to parallel decades of flatlining business investment.

New research brings us secrets that can be shared. It enables others across the economy to follow suit. We can now explain how these exceptional companies have built a track-record of producing out-sized returns gaining them BOTH internal and market confidence to invest more.

Dr Davis has cracked the code to explain what these out-investing companies are doing differently. He shows that they are NOT risk-taking, but using Enhanced Governance practices that give confidence (mathematical confidence, not emotional confidence) in their investment decisions. They invest more because they (and markets) KNOW they will get a return.

New perspective enables new pathways to stimulate Economic Development investment in Volatility. It enables a knowledge-based strategy that can be achieved without legislative change, corporate welfare or expensive incentive programs.

This session shares research insights and innovative strategies to stimulate adoption of better practice, at scale across the economy.

The Future of Economic Development

Your audience will discover how to:

-  Overcome hidden (internal and market) barriers that suppress business investment
-  Progress advantaged pathways to stimulate business investment at scale
-  Stimulate Economic Development at scale, increasing systemic resilience
